GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Seymour of Bennett Street Are Celebrating Fifty Years of Married Life.

Today Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Seymour of Bennett street are observing the 50th anniversary of their marriage and they are being assisted in celebrating the event by all of their children. At noon the entire party sat down to a sumptuous repast prepared by the hostess. A handsomely frosted cake bearing the inscription, "50th Wedding Anniversary," occupied the center of the festive board. During the afternoon and evening Mr. and Mrs. Seymour were at home to their friends and received many callers, all of whom brought words of good cheer to the estimable couple, who have made their home in the Christian Shore district, ever since their marriage.

Ira C. Seymour was born in this city, May 15, 1842, the son of the late Solomon and Martha Seymour. His education was gained in the schools of his native town and then he learned the blacksmith trade with his father. He continued successfully in the business up to within a few years, being obliged to give up owing to poor health. When a young man he became a member of the fire department and served as foreman of Kearsarge engine company. He was chief engineer of the department under Mayor Moses H. Goodrich. At the time of the big Boston fire in 1872, he was in charge of the detail from Kearsarge company. In politics he has always been a staunch Democrat and has served in both the board of aldermen and the board of instruction. He was the Democratic member of the original police commission appointed in 1895. He has been an Odd Fellow for upwards of a half century, being affiliated with Osgood Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F.

POLICE COURT.

Elmore Boston, a lumberman from Berwick, Me., who attempted to clean out a saloon on Deer street, was arraigned in the district court before Judge Larry K. Torrey Saturday afternoon and was fined $15 and costs of $9. According to the evidence Boston entered the saloon and started things by calling Ralph Staples, the bartender, various names not used in good society. Boston then assaulted a bystander named Greenough, according to the police, and when Staples interfered, the lumberman attacked him. He then went outside and broke a window of the saloon.

At the same session Sergeant Paul Keller and Private Lawrence Bryd, members of the marine guard stationed at the local navy yard, were arraigned on the charge of mutual assault. The evidence brought out the fact that Sergeant Keller had nothing to do with starting the trouble and he was discharged. Bryd was fined $10.

HAD GOOD LUCK.

The American Express Company brought here this morning several good sized deer from Forest, Me., that had been shot by hunters of this section. Two of the animals were consigned to H. P. Libby of Eliot, one to Frank Kase of Kittery, one to C. P. Plisted of Kittery Junction, and one to Elmer E. Eaton of New Castle.

FIGHTING NEAR THE SUEZ CANAL

(Special to The Herald)
Constantinople, Nov. 23.—It is officially announced that the Turks have reached the vicinity of the Suez Canal and that the Ottoman army and British forces are engaged between Kalass and Teale, eighteen miles east of El Kantara.

AUSTRIANS CLAIM VICTORY

(Special to The Herald)
Vienna, via Berlin and Amsterdam, Nov. 23.—It is officially announced here that the Austro-German army in Poland are steadily gaining ground and driving the Russian forces back.

GERMANS ARE GAINING GROUND

(Special to The Herald)
Berlin, Nov. 23.—That the English warships which recently resumed their bombardment of the German position along the Belgian coast have been driven off by the German artillery, and that the Germans are making gains in the Argonne region of France, capturing trenches, are the chief points brought out in an official statement issued at the war office here today. It is as follows:

"Headquarters reports fighting is continued on the Neuport-Ypres line. Small British squadrons which approached the coast were driven off by our artillery. The British naval guns had no effect. We are gaining ground in the Argonne forest. We are gradually taking trenches, capturing prisoners daily. A reconnoitering expedition against our position east of the Moselle was made inoffensive by a counter-attack. The situation in East Prussia is unchanged. The appearance of Russian reinforcements in Poland is postponing a division in the battle in the region of Czesochowa. To the northeast of Cracow, the Austro-German offensive is maintained."

FAMOUS CATHEDRAL IS BURNING

Paris, Nov. 23.—Shells hurled upon Xpres by German artillery have set fire to the famous cathedral of St. Martin, the noted Cloth Halls and to numerous houses. The Germans are directing their attacks against Solsons and against Rheims.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Nov. 23.—Governor Dunn of Illinois and Eberhardt of Minnesota have joined in a letter to Governor Walsh in pursuance of the vote of the recent conference of governors held at Madison, Wis., to request the governors of manufacturing states to appoint three commissioners to attend a meeting to be held in Chicago, Ill., in December, for the purpose of devising some general scheme to secure uniformity of law in all the states for the safety, health and general welfare of all workmen and working women and particularly in manufacturing states. The idea is that now, in some states there are very stringent regulations while in others there are not any, that the governors of the several states should endeavor to obtain uniformity of legislation in their respective states for the benefit of the working people and to relieve the manufacturers from the present individuality that exists between states that have such laws and those which have not. Governor Walsh will make his appointments later.

AMERICAN BATTLESHIP
THE BEST IN THE WORLD

Washington, Nov. 22.—American battleship design, as exemplified in the last seven battleships built and building, is the best in the world, according to Maurice Prendergast, the British naval expert, in a statement circulated by Mr. A. H. Dudson, secretary of the Navy League. Mr. Dudson quotes Mr. Prendergast from an article written for the Navy League of the United Kingdom. In part Mr. Prendergast says: "With perhaps the exception of the Japanese Fusō, no dreadnought among the fleets in active service can compare with those new American ships in the matter of size. The American ships will probably be the largest afloat for many years after their completion. During the past ten years the design of American battleships has displayed a remarkable standard of excellence. It was clearly recognized in the very first United States dreadnoughts that plain broadside fire was of more practical value than heavy end-on fire at odd angles. After all navies had tried various methods of mounting big guns the American centre-line plan had to be finally adopted.

"Perhaps the most interesting point in the armoring of these ships. The methods of protecting warships by armor has savored too much of following traditional practice than attempting any fresh solution. The American designers have boldly declared for the thickest armor or none. If armor cannot withstand the attack of heavy ordnance abandon it, they say, and devote the weight to some other purpose or for extending the area of really thick and useful protection.

"The conventional six-inch plate for a six-inch position, five inch armor for five-inch guns, etc., like the processional arrangements made by Noah for the Ark, they consider futile. Such armor merely assists in the detonation of large, high explosive shells which would pass through ordinary plating without meeting enough resistance to burst. Except for the protective decks no armor of less than fourteen-inch thickness is used. The water line is protected by a belt of fourteen inch thickness, which extends for some distance beyond the end barbettes and is closed by cross bulkheads of equal section. Nearly the whole of this belt is seventeen and a half feet deep, nine feet of its vertical depth being above the water line and eight and a half feet below the same. But near the stern there is a jog and the belt extends from the water line only for the same depth below it as the rest of the belt.

"The four great gun positions are composed of fourteen-inch armor also. The faces of the gun shields are eighteen inches thick, while the sides are nine to ten inches thick with a five-inch roof. The conning tower is sixteen inches thick and the communication tube is of the same section.

"One of the most pleasing features is the way in which all the uptakes from the boilers are gathered within the big fourteen-inch cone that forms the base of the single funnel. This prevents the perforation of the uptakes and the following circulation of the furnace gases between the decks.

"In the new ships additional weight has been devoted to protection against submarine explosions by an extended system of lateral armored bulkheads placed eight feet from the outer skin of the ship. These are formed of several thicknesses of high-tensile steel and extend along the magazine, boiler and engine room spaces. As the protection of the five-inch guns by heavy armor would involve an exorbitant increase in displacement, no attempt whatever is made to protect these guns other than the slight protection afforded by the hull plating. The designers have abjured the use of this armor for the reasons stated above.

"These new American ships are developed from the Nevada class. Both the Nevada and our Queen Elizabeth were designed about the same time, and numerous points of marked resemblance between them seem to raise the similarity above the field of vulgar coincidence. For want of design the American ships are facile princes—a striking contrast to some dreadnoughts, whose minor details seem to have been 'shoveled on just where they will fit,' as a sort of afterthought. The difference amounts to the next tier stowage of the boats in American ships and the clumsy jigsaw boat arrangements of the German Nassau. American designs have not been reared in the stifling atmosphere of secrecy; straight and honest criticism (as in the case of the Delaware at the Newport conference) has gone far in the production of some of the finest warships afloat. As a contrast, in what lingering pain did the German maintain a secrecy labor and produce a ridiculous Nassau.

"The seven new ships are intended to form a tactical group with the earlier ships of the Nevada type. All the ships are so designed as to have the same areas of fire for the 14-inch guns, equal speed and the same tactical planimeter or turning spaces. It would appear that the whole group will finally comprise seven ships, viz: Nevada, Oklahoma, (ten 14-inch guns); Pennsylvania, Arizona, California, Idaho and Mississippi (twelve 14-inch guns), totalling eighty 14-inch weapons. Since the principal tactical features of these vessels have been standardized, they will form the most powerful and homogeneous squadron of super-dreadnoughts in existence on completion of the last ship in 1918."

STOCK MARKET
MAY OPEN SOON

London, Nov. 22.—The weather and the conclusion of the settlement are helping toward what all petitions and arguments failed to accomplish, and the Stock Exchange is looking forward with confidence to reopening. The week closed with the street in excellent humor. The fact is settlement was arranged with even more satisfaction than the members themselves thought possible.

Further in the last few days there has been evidence of a growing inquiry for stocks of various kinds. The city is very pleased at the manner the war loan is going and it is clearly evident that it will prove a thorough success. At the same time with a loan so huge and the wide area from which the applicants are drawn it is impossible to give figures regarding the total applied for or the probable final amount. It is, however, considered wise for the authorities to keep the subscription list open for some days more.

In the circumstances the Stock Exchange has begun seriously to consider reopening. Developments are so satisfactory that it may occur early in December. It is not thought that the government will make an objection provided measures be taken to safeguard the country against foreign selling that might assist the enemy.

The most satisfactory feature at the end of the week has been the revival in Americans. At least half a dozen leading shares now are actively dealt

TROOPS WILL LEAVE
VERA CRUZ TODAY

Vera Cruz, Nov. 22.—When the American troops evacuated Vera Cruz next Monday the majority of the American residents will be quartered in the district about the consulate, which is only a block away from the water front.

Their only protection, other than that which the Mexicans have promised, will be in the power of Rear Admiral McLean, whose flagship is now anchored within the inner harbor. The battleship Texas is just outside the harbor and the gunboat Petrel is within easy call.

An effort is being made to induce Rear Admiral McLean to declare the foreign allied district a neutral zone in case of fighting between the Mexican factions.

All day Americans living in the central hotels and in houses some distance from the water front have been engaging rooms where the ships' guns can protect them. Mexicans many of whom do not trust the promises and guarantees made by their countrymen were almost as numerous as the Americans in the crowd which besieged the consulate to inquire as to the best means of securing protection or transportation abroad.

The steamer Antilla of the Ward Line has been chartered by Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston, by authority of the War Department, and on this ship there will sail such refugees as the United States considers itself under obligation to remove from danger. The Antilla's list of passengers will include policemen and others who have been employed by the Americans and priests and nuns.

Among the American families resident here there was a dearth of Mexican servants tonight, almost all the servants having left their positions with the statement that they feared to remain in the employ of Americans after the troops had gone.

That Gen. Villa's men will offer armed resistance to the supporters of Gen. Carranza was regarded less likely here today. Adherents of Gen. Villa admitted that their forces were too weak to be successful.

At the head of the Turks. When, after the destruction of his poorly trained army, he returned to Constantinople, he was pilloried by Enver Pasha and his supporters. Enver Pasha now reigns supreme at Istanbul as master of war.

Osman Pasha Ghazi, who defended Plevna so bravely in the war of 1877 met a better fate. When Plevna fell he was badly wounded, but on his recovery he was set free by the Russians and when he returned to Constantinople the sultan conferred upon him many honors.

Marshal Muenchau suffered many defeats at the hands of the Germans in the war of 1870, but on his release from captivity he was placed by the nation in command of the army and ultimately elected to the presidency on his death he was mourned by all France.

England's military law is very strict about surrendering, and the existing army act, section 5, prescribes heavy penalties for anyone who is taken prisoner through lack of caution, disobedience of orders, or wilful neglect of duty.

In all the navies of the world, practically a commander who surrenders his craft to the enemy renders himself liable to court martial with almost inevitable disgrace to follow, if not death. Last year an order was issued in the name of the Czar to the Russian navy that commanders of warships must sink their vessels with all on board rather than surrender to the enemy.

The most recent case of "honor or death" is the suicide of the commanding general of the Thirteenth Russian Army Corps.

A non-commissioned officer and five men on bicycles who had been dispatched from General Hindenburg's army were advancing along the main road when they heard the sound of the approaching motor car.

They shouted to the chauffeur to stop, but he ignored them and was shot. Revolver in hand, the officer rushed toward the car, but before he could reach it one of the two Russian officers in the car shot himself and died instantly.

The other Russian and the dead general were taken to the headquarters of a German regiment, but any triumph of capture was completely discredited by the honorable heroism of the Russian commander.

Ever Lawson of Sweden and Peter Drobach of Poland the Swedish-Polish team, were second with 61 points. Maggie McNamara of Australia and Jimmy Moran of Chelsea, Mass., the International team, were third with 53 points; Francesco Verri of Italy and Oscar Egg of Switzerland, known as the Italian team, and Fred Hill of Boston and Joe Fogler of Brooklyn, whose title was the American team, tied for fourth place with 50 points each, while George Cameron and Harry Kelsey of New York, the Bronx team, finished last among the leading six, with 44 points.

At 9 o'clock, when the final hour's sprint started, the six leading teams had gone 2780 miles and 6 laps. The Boat-Club and the Lawrence-Maglin teams, a lap behind, withdrew from the track and the sprint of leaders began the hour sprinting for points to decide the final standing.

In this sprint the leader at the end of each 15 laps was credited with six points, the second team with five points, and so on down to the last team, which received a credit of one point. The winning team was that which scored the greatest number of points in the hour's sprinting.

The Latest Panacea.

Some years ago publicity was advanced as the remedy for most of our public evils, particularly in connection with the great corporations. This happened at about the time the people woke up to the fact that there were such things as trusts. Even so eminent a light as the late Dr. John Bascom of Williams college, a man who studied the conditions of his time with ability and thoroughness, proclaimed publicity as the remedy for practically all of the ills that had grown out of the consolidations of capital and industries for the sake of alleged economy in production.

Since that day there has been a great deal of publicity, but, if we may judge by the efforts of Congress, the state legislatures and reform organizations the country over, the evils have not been removed. The people are still suffering from the exactions of combination to an extent which demonstrates that publicity did not prove so potent a remedy as it was thought to be.

And now another panacea is being offered. This is uniformity in state legislation. There are writers and speakers and men who pose as statesmen who are urging that the great need of the country is greater uniformity in legislation. They would have the marriage and divorce laws and many other laws made the same in every state.

But just how the ills from which the different states are suffering would be removed by uniform legislation remains to be seen. The trouble is that the states are not suffering from the lack of laws, and good laws, but from the lack of law enforcement. Take capital punishment, for instance. How is it to be shown whether or not this is a deterrent of murder so long as it is not half enforced, as is the case in most states, as everybody knows? And, under such circumstances, what would be gained by making capital punishment uniform throughout the states, or by a uniform abolition of this penalty?

Not uniform legislation, but a more rigid enforcement of the laws is what this country needs today. In the different states conditions differ more or less, and it is for each to legislate according to its own needs and desires. Laws are neither patented nor copyrighted, and when any state develops a measure that may profitably be adopted by another it need not worry for fear that its good work will not be noted by its neighbors. More uniformity in legislation might work well in some ways, but it will never prove a panacea for the evils of the time.

The government has decided not to pay over to Salem, Mass., the $200,000 appropriated for the relief of that city at the time of the fire. It finds that the city has been well taken care of, $644,371 having been expended and there being $100,000 on hand. There were some who at the time questioned the propriety of a government appropriation for such a purpose, but in the excitement of the hour it was made, and it is well that the sober, second thought has come to the rescue.

At the funeral of the Sullivan girl, the victim of the notable Maine murder case, the minister declared that the church of the town was responsible for the girl's death. It is that sort of slop that is doing more than anything else to protect murderers in this country from the fate they deserve. It is high time to recognize that there is such a thing as individual responsibility and to cease attempting to shift this to the shoulders of society, the church or the school.

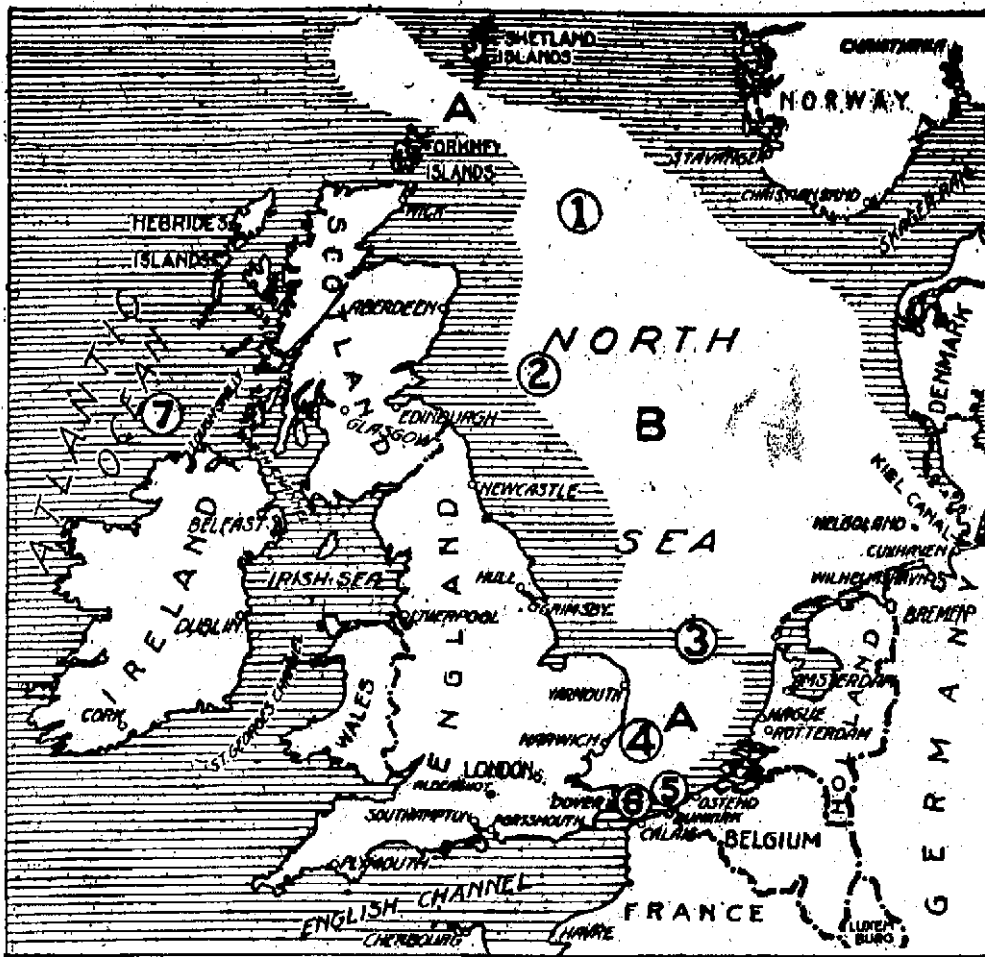

On the last day before prohibition went into effect in Russia under martial law long lines of people stood in a raging snow storm before the liquor stores to lay in supplies to tide them over the dry spell. Nothing could more effectually rouse the sympathies of a certain element all over the world.

Perhaps it's all right, but does the manufacture in this country of submarines, cartridges and other munitions of war for the belligerents of the Old World comport strictly with a neutrality which calls on Americans to refrain, so far as possible, from the mere expression of opinion?

Pictorial postcards are in use in England which carry a sketch of the British lion, with this inscription: "The mane is not merely a glorious adornment, but a real protection to the lion." So might England with some appropriateness raise the cry, "Remember the mane!"

More than a dozen presidential possibilities for 1916 have already been mentioned by the Republicans, that of governor-elect Whitman of New York heading the list just now. But it is well to remember that in this field "Many are called and few are chosen."

In the above map are shown the mine areas in the North sea and the points where British warships were sunk by German mines or submarines. A roughly indicates the British mine area and B the German mine area. The British cruisers Hawke (1) and Pathfinder (2) were sunk off the Scottish coast in the North sea. The Hogue (3), Cressy (4) and Aboukir (5) were sunk by a German submarine off the Dutch coast. The Amphion (6) was sunk off the English coast, and the Hermes (7) and the Niger (8) were sunk in the English channel. administration, which sent men into the state in a determined effort to defeat him. The newspapers of New Hampshire have stated that he European steamship interests were also active against the Senator, but if they were they have miserably failed to make any impression upon public opinion—for Senator Gallinger was first triumphantly nominated without opposition in the Senatorial primaries of September 1, and now has been overwhelmingly elected. He is sent back to Washington with an enthusiastic popular support that has rarely been accorded to any man in public life. He has submitted his record to his people. They have approved it, and he will be stronger now in the leadership of the Republican side of the Senate than he has ever been before. The indications of Tuesday's election are clear that that is the side that will very soon be again supreme in our National government.

The Marine Journal heartily congratulates Senator Gallinger on his great victory, for it is a victory also for the American merchant marine, of which he is in public life most active, constant and powerful advocate. It was Senator Gallinger who led the successful defense of the constabulary law in the recent session of Congress, and that splendid work will be long and gratefully remembered. It is the ambition of the Senator to lead again in strong, positive legislation for the real upbuilding of an American fleet in overseas trade, and there is every reason to believe that he will not be disappointed.

In this connection no higher compliment could be paid this veteran senator than to state the fact that he is almost a perfect embodiment in principle, character and loyalty to the nation of the late William P. Frye of Maine, whose first and last thought in connection with national legislation was always of and for the interest of the American ship and those connected with that industry, which was practically born in the New England States.—Marine Journal.

BALK DARING ENGLISH RAID

Three English Airmen Attempt to Destroy German Factory With Bombs.

Friedrichshafen, Nov. 22, via Berlin, The Hague and London.—Elaborate precautions which the Germans have taken for the failure of the raid of three English aviators who, yesterday afternoon, swooped down upon this city with the object of destroying with bombs the Zeppelin balloons works here.

Anti-aeroplane cannon and machine guns adapted to high angle fire defeated the accomplishment of the daring exploit and succeeded in bringing down one of the hostile machines and putting the others to flight.

The British airmen were first seen above Constance at 2 o'clock, and their presence immediately was announced to the authorities at Friedrichshafen by telephone. When the airmen appeared at Friedrichshafen the anti-aeroplane cannon and the machine guns immediately opened fire. The Englishmen circled above the balloon hall for some time and dropped six bombs, two of which came so near to the building as to cause a tremor of apprehension among those watching the novel combat. Two other bombs struck houses in the city, damaging them severely and killing a man and wounding a woman.

One of the flyers then made a fearless attempt to cross the hall at a height of only a quarter of a mile. Bombs from the machine guns mounted on the top of buildings, however, pierced the aeroplane's gasoline tank, causing the fuel to escape and forcing the pilot to glide to earth. During the descent of the machine the airmen, a lieutenant of the British naval air service, named Bridges, threw two or three more bombs at the hangar, but they missed their mark and did no damage.

The lieutenant on reaching the ground, tried to defend himself with a revolver, but was captured by the employees of the Zeppelin wharf after receiving a slight wound in the head. The point where the aeroplane landed was only 800 feet from the Zeppelin hall.

The other aviators, after seeing the accident to their companion, did not throw any bombs but rose to a great height and disappeared across Lake Constance.

The wounded man is being treated at a local hospital.

UNINTELLIGENT VOTING

The returns from almost any election district show a regular proportion of errors in marking ballots. Also the returns always show many illogical oddities.

The mistakes of the ballot box are by no means confined to uneducated persons. Down in the back street of the city where recent immigrants prevail you might expect to find blundering voters.

The chances are that their political education has been well attended to.

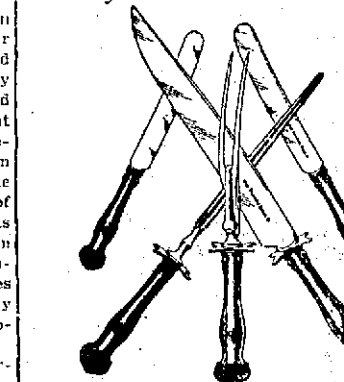

Some worker has taken his pupils one by one and has shown them that even the ignorant man can mark a ballot correctly. For such citizen the act of voting is a great privilege. They meditate over their lesson, with great sobriety of heart enter the voting booth, and are apt to mark correctly.

Meanwhile the hurried business man enters the polling place, his mind centered on problems that he left at his office. Before he knows it he may have marked two candidates where he could only vote for one.

In the states where the law does not permit one to vote a straight party ticket by making a single mark, the tail end of the ballot usually shows a lower total. Yet the contests most vitally affecting a community may come at the end. It seems but a trifling effort to mark a ballot from end to end, but many voters seem to become wearied from this strain on their intellects.

At primary or other elections where candidates are arranged alphabetically without party designation, the politicians always say it is a great advantage to have your name begin with A or B, so that you can reach the ballot. If your name begins with W or Y you are handicapped. There are always a number of indifferent voters, who on many contests will mark the first name that they read. They would add to the average intelligence of the electorate by going fishing election day.—Manchester Union.

CURRENT OPINION

Plea for Principles as Against Personal Abuse in Elections.

The time was when questions were discussed in political campaigns by men who had made a conscientious study of the principles which lie at the foundation of government. CANDIDATES CAME BEFORE THE VOTERS WITH ARGUMENTS INTENDED TO IMPROVE CONDITIONS or to extend prosperity or benefit the people of the nation by their endeavors both in the party organizations which they represented and in the halls of the legislature.

THOSE WERE MEN WHO WERE STATESMEN ENOUGH TO OFFER SOMETHING AND TO MAKE AT LEAST SOME CLAIM OF REASON FOR THEIR DEMAND THAT ONE POLITICAL PARTY SHOULD BE PUT OUT OF POWER AND ANOTHER PUT IN. THEY GAVE THE PEOPLE SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT, AT ALL EVENTS, THAT WAS WORTH WHILE.

But the strange peculiarity of recent campaigns is that we listen to scarcely anything nowadays but the abuse which some of the gentlemen engaged in it employ, in their public speeches. It would almost seem as if they thought that an audience at a political meeting could find no GREATER DELIGHT THAN TO SEE ONE PROMINENT CITIZEN OF THE COMMONWEALTH OR ANOTHER STRIPPED OF HIS CHARACTER as a man and turned toward hatred or ridicule. Perhaps they do think so, but I do not believe that they are right.—By Charlemagne Tower, Author and Diplomat.

Rally Day was observed at the Universalist church Sunday school on Sunday, and very interesting exercises were held at that time. Appropriate recitations and songs were given by the children which reflect great credit upon both teachers and scholars.

Another pleasing feature of the services was the presentation of a beautiful silk American flag to the Sunday school in behalf of the Storor Relief Corps, No. 6, by Patriotic Instructor, Orintha A. Carl. It was accepted for the Sunday school by Superintendent J. Verne Wood, who made a few appropriate remarks. The school gave the salute to the flag as it was received, after which "America" was sung.

THE MERCHANT WHO ANTICIPATES

To anticipate is to think and to act ahead. It is not only looking to the future—it is acting before the future happens. The clever retailer is the one who anticipates the wants of the consumer.

In this city there are thousands of consumer wants created by advertising in these columns. On the shelves of every store are products that will fill these wants. To bring the consumer and his wants together, the merchant who anticipates new business keeps a special eye on the products advertised in the newspapers. He keeps these articles out in the light where the consumer who has been influenced by the advertising will see them. Anticipation is a good word in the making of customers.

RESCIND ORDER TO CAPTAINS OF BOTH WARSHIPS

Daniels Gives Mediterranean Commanders Discretionary Powers.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Secretary Daniels today cabled Captain Decker of the cruiser Tennessee and Captain Omar of the cruiser North Carolina, in the eastern Mediterranean giving them discretionary authority to deal with emergencies that might arise in protecting American citizens and their interests in Turkey.

The secretary rescinded the order which he sent last week, directing both commanders to take no action whatever, pending an investigation of the firing on the Tennessee's launch at Smyrna.

Although official explanation has not been received, informal assurances from the Ottoman ministers of war and interior to Ambassador Morgenthau that the shots were fired as a friendly warning to inform the launch, as was customary, that the harbor of Smyrna was mined and closed, have been accepted as the forerunner of a formal statement by the grand vizier to the same effect.

Secretary Daniels thought it advisable to place the American naval commanders again under the navy regulations, which had been temporarily suspended, but cautioned them in the use of their discretionary authority. The regulations virtually give naval commanders in isolated parts of the globe the authority to take any measures deemed necessary to prevent loss of life to Americans. They might even bombard a town in an extreme case.

Mr. Daniels cabled Captain Decker and Captain Omar, however, that they should keep in close touch with the navy department and the American embassy at Constantinople, making comprehensive reports on conditions as they found them. Only extreme emergencies when necessary to protect American lives the secretary said, should the commanders feel privileged to act on their own initiative.

At the same time he cautioned them to consider carefully the critical conditions brought about by the war in Europe, and the desire of the United States to preserve a strict neutrality. His orders to the two commanders indicate that the United States has no intention of withdrawing its vessels.

No further word came from Ambassador Morgenthau today concerning the Smyrna incident.

One phase of the situation which will be impressed upon American consuls is that taking care of British and French interests they are not to place themselves in the position of partisans, merely following the diplomatic courtesies usual in such situations.

American warships are in no case to be used, as has been frequently reported as means of forcing protection for British and French subjects. The duty of a neutral consul it was explained today by a member of the cabinet, is merely that of a mediator who exercises good offices for the protection and care of the non-combatant subjects of the enemy.

MOVIE SHIP WRECK NEAR TO TRAGEDY

Old Schooner Sent Upon Rocks Near Gloucester and Crew Have Narrow Escape.

Gloucester, Nov. 22.—While a crowd of 4000 looked on from the shore, four sailors endeavoring to rescue a New York movie picture concern nearly lost their lives this afternoon, when the schooner Island Home was blown on the rocks off Hance's Cove, Eastern Point. A volunteer crew in a lifeboat saved two of the men. The others got away in the dories.

The men were Capt. Charles Martin, Jr., in command of the schooner, William Sawyer of East Gloucester, Cornelius Lincoln and Salvatore Puglisi. They were saved, but only after floating about in the water, the first two clinging to the wreckage for nearly an hour before the lifeboat could get near enough to take them off.

The movie picture men had bought the old schooner Island Home with the intention of having a wreck picture taken at Hance's Cove, as soon as the weather got a little rough. They decided to make the venture yesterday, and a tugboat pulled the schooner out of Gloucester harbor and around to the scene where the camera men and 4000 persons who had read of the plank in the local paper waited.

It was the plan to have the men get off in the two dories, as the vessel heaved her deck, and it was this part of the scene that they wanted for a play called "As You Sow." The old boat carried no ballast, however, and her half-sail made her almost unmanageable. A strong wind was blowing toward shore and the Island Home headed with increased speed for the rocks. The crowd yelled to the sailors to take to their dories, but the Island Home was not going in the direction of the camera, and the picture would have been spoiled, so the men remained on board.

Capt. Martin steered toward the rocks, but when the sailors started to leave the sea was too high and the vessel was reeling too much to permit the safe launching of a dory.

In a few minutes the Island Home crashed on the rocks. Seas broke over her. The men took to the rigging until the stern settled, then they retreated to the bow. In 15 minutes the vessel had taken so much water that her deck disappeared and she rested on the bottom, while the mainmast went by the board.

Patrolman George Melham organized a volunteer crew for the lifeboat of the Massachusetts Humane Society. Patrolman Henry W. Bickford waited out almost to the rocks with a rope, but the heavy sea drove him back. The regular lifeboat crew launched their boat and tried to reach the wreck, but could not get near enough to take off the men. By this time the volunteer crew was on the water and succeeded in getting close to the fallen mast. Sawyer and Martin crawled out on this and were taken aboard.

Lincoln and Puglisi each launched a dory and reached the other lifeboats. The crowd on the shore went wild with excitement and cheered the rescuers again and again. The St. John boat hoisted for Boston stopped and came as close to the shore as was safe, but could give no assistance.

A picture was not taken of the entire scene as the camera men were too busy trying to effect a real rescue to bother about the show possibilities of the wreck. Capt. Martin and Sawyer were in serious condition as the result of their experience and required the services of a physician.

Capt. Martin told the crowd gathered on shore that all the money that was ever coined could not induce him to pose for a moving picture operator again.

Conductor Herbert Colbath of the Conway branch returned to his train today after two weeks' absence on a hunting trip. Conductor Arthur Clark has been running during Conductor Colbath's absence.

Mrs. Howell of Rodgers Island has loaned a part of her junkyard house for the winter. It has been Mrs. Howell's custom for many years to spend the winter here.

Fred Canney of Portsmouth was in town recently, buying up poultry.

Mrs. George Ireland who has been suffering from a severe cold is much improved.

Miss Ernie Smith has accepted a position in Augusta for the winter. Evangelistic services are to be held in Emory hall the first week in December. A more definite announcement will be made later.

Quite a few people from our town attended services at St. John's church in Portsmouth Sunday morning, to hear the Rev. Edward M. Parker, D. D., who spoke in the absence of the Rector. Much sympathy is expressed for Mr. Parker who is quite ill and unable to take charge of his church. Bishop Parker took for his text, a part of the Nicene Creed, "What the Cross of Christ is to Us."

Howard Libbey returned on Sunday from a hunting trip in Eastern Maine.

With the ground gleaming white through the swiftly falling mists of the evening, the ladies of the Congregational fair committee, were undaunted, supremely confident that success would attend their untiring efforts of the past six weeks.

Despite the storm, it proved a big success and a surprisingly large sum was realized. There were six booths all beautifully decorated with tulips, for it was a Dutch fair. At the supper hour the attendants were all in Dutch costume and a delicious feast was served. The ladies of this parish are not to be outdone when it comes to this part of the programme, so on this occasion, great credit is due to those in charge for its success.

The opera in the evening was most enjoyable and at those who braved the elements on that gloomy evening were well repaid for their inconvenience. We are pleased to announce that for the benefit of a large number of the out-lying districts who were unable to attend, as well as for many who were present and would like to witness it again, the whole affair will be repeated in the near future. We wish to extend our appreciation to all those who made such an effort on that awful night to aid us by their presence, and invite you to come again. We wish to thank the managing committee, Mrs. Frank Kennard and Mrs. Howard Libbey for their untiring efforts; also those who in any way aided us to make the affair a success.

PHYSICAL EXHAUSTION STOPS FIGHTING IN FLANDERS

Both Armies Suffer From Exposed Positions- Freezing Weather and No Protection

London, November 22, 1914.—After exhaustion and physical and mental numbness due to the extreme cold weather and the exposed position of the battle front has caused an almost complete cessation of the fighting in Flanders and northern France. From the North Sea to Ypres the territory is absolutely flat—in some portions slightly below sea level—and that part of it not under water is a morass of half frozen snow and water.

Shelter there is none. What buildings and farmhouses there were before the armies began to grapple in death grips long since have been shot to pieces or torn down for what fuel there might be in them. Nothing but the trenches protect the lightly clothed, weary men from the piercing winds from off the North Sea, and these trenches are little more than muskrat burrows, rain and snow covered, with six inches of mud and water for footing.

It is the neutrality of elements emphasized that the opposing armies are alike affected. The weather is holding no favorites and the men in the allied lines are suffering equally with the men on the German front. A desultory artillery duel continues at some points, but it would seem that even the steel and chemicals that have been dealing death thousands have revolted at adding to the misery of a low country winter. Occasionally an infantry battalion is rallied to an assault across a plain, but these attacks lack the vigor that guarantees success. The Germans, it is reported here, are sending large numbers of their troops to the Russian frontier and the Allies, far from taking advantage of the apparently weakened enemy forces, are sending their officers and men from the trenches to the rear on short leaves for recuperation. The Allies, in what artillery fighting is in progress, seem to have the advantage over the German guns.

The quietude along the front, together with the cancellation of the order for the removal of the shipping from Dunkirk, is taken to indicate that the Allies consider their positions safe for the present, and that they themselves do not contemplate any immediate forward movement.

For this reason and because, the result will have a most important bearing on the war, interest is still centered on the battles in Poland. As has been the case heretofore when important events were impending, little news is coming from either Berlin or Petrograd regarding the operations. It is known, however, that the Germans are offering stubborn resistance to the Russian advance in East Prussia, and that General von Hindenburg, commander of the German troops, and Grand Duke Nicholas, commander in chief of the Russians, are the greatest strategists the war has produced, are maneuvering for positions between the Vistula and the Warta, and that a big battle is in progress on the Cracow-Czestochowa line between Russian and Austro-German forces.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST IN THE ARMY AND NAVY

Naval Surveying Difficulties

The naval officers and men who have been engaged on naval surveying encounter much in the way of hardship and discomfort. The medical officers who are attached to these surveying parties have reported that the refractive error and complications are a source of considerable trouble with little relief to be had. The glare of the water, constant use of sextants, protractors, and instruments of precision soon bring forth trouble among the officers and men working under these conditions of eyestrain, rheumatism and a continuous series of styles appear. Headaches, dizziness, and inability to read are complained of. Examination shows 20-20 or more with some degree of astigmatism. On the survey grounds the only relief rests in splinting the eyes with atropine or else changing the detail of work. In an endeavor to clear this condition, if possible, Surgeon D. N. Carpenter, U. S. Navy, examined a good many of the cases. He reports "practically every case shows asthenopia of considerable degree associated with astigmatism, which is usual ly of minor degree." Colored (light amber) goggles have been furnished the expeditions, but the men can not work in them on account of interference with sight, and, further, they get covered with salt-water spray which clouds the glass, and no time is available to clean them while taking angles in rapid succession. These goggles are furnished with metal side guards which rest from action of the salt water. Their only practical value consists in use going to and from the boats before the actual work of angle taking begins and for those not using instruments.—Army and Navy Register.

Unaccountable Disability in the Navy
The naval authorities are more or less non-plussed over a situation which involves what is regarded as an undue proportion of retirements of warrant officers of the Navy for physical disability or as a result of failure to meet the physical qualifications in the examination for appointment as commissioned chief. When it is considered that upon obtaining a warrant position there is a physical examination and promotion to commissioned chiefship occurs at the end of five years and before a man is thirty-five years of age, it is felt that there should not be so many of these retirements on account of physical disqualification. The latest examinations to engage the attention of the department are those of Boatswain Train McKenna, recently retired for deafness, and Chief Gunner C. R. Jaffe who has just been before a retiring board. No less than thirty per cent of the warrant officers who are examined for appointment as commissioned chief are found lacking in the necessary requirements. When it is found that commissioned officers examined for promotion are retired only at the rate of three per cent on account of physical disability it is believed that there must be some conditions which could easily be corrected, or at least which are entitled to receive careful consideration. The subject has been brought to the attention of the Navy Department with a view to an investigation and for such action as may be deemed necessary.—Army and Navy Register.

Recall From Vera Cruz

To the surprise of everyone the administration has ordered that the troops at Vera Cruz be withdrawn on Monday, in which connection the Secretary of State has made the following statement:

"Both Gen. Carranza and the convention at Aguascalientes having given the assurances and guarantees we requested, it is the purpose of the Administration to withdraw the troops of the United States from Vera Cruz Monday, the 23d of November. All the persons there for whose personal safety this government has made itself responsible, have left the city. The priests and nuns who had taken refuge there, and for whose safety fears were entertained, are now on their way to this country."

"This seems to be a diplomatic, rather than a military, action, for it is known that last week the War Department was engaged on the preliminaries in anticipation of the transfer to Vera Cruz of the second division, now in Texas, for which purpose the Army transports at Vera Cruz were to be utilized in the transfer of troops and animals from Galveston. In accordance with the instructions of the President, the troops under General Funston at Vera Cruz will be brought to Galveston on the Klipschick, Sumner, Cristobal, and Kansas with a few who can be accommodated on board the refrigerator ship McClellan. All of the men, animals, and supplies of the Army can be accommodated with one trip of the transports. The marines in Mexico will be brought to Philadelphia on the City of Denver, the City of Memphis, and the San Marcos. The transport Buford, which is on its way to the Canal Zone with the 5th Infantry, will probably go to Galveston instead of going to Vera Cruz, inasmuch as that vessel will not reach the isthmus until November 24. It becomes a question whether the four transports which have been chartered by the government shall be relieved or retained at Galveston. There is still an apprehension that there may be need of the transfer of troops to Mexico; but, on the other hand, the State Department and probably the President, entertain the belief that there shall be no attempt at intervention on the part of this country in Mexican affairs. The four chartered transports are costing the government about $3,800 a day, and it is naturally desired to relieve the government of this expense as soon as possible.

SAW THE DARTMOUTH GALE

Among those from this city who witnessed the Dartmouth-Syracuse game in Boston on Saturday were: Messrs. Charles H. Walker, J. M. Waldron, Dr. E. B. Eastman, J. C. McDonough, Dr. S. T. Ladd, C. Edward Hoyt, Clarence Smith, Justin McCarthy, Albert R. Hatch and Charles Dandern.

The schools close on Wednesday for the usual three days' vacation for the Thanksgiving holiday.

WON'T MIX.

Bad Food and Good Health Won't Mix.

The human stomach stands much abuse but it won't return good health if you give it bad food.

If you feel right you should feel light, for proper food and a good mind is the sure road to health.

"A year ago I became much alarmed about my health for I began to suffer after each meal no matter how little I ate," says a Denver woman.

"I lost my appetite and the very thought of food grew distasteful, with the result that I was not nourished and I grew weak and thin."

"My home cares were very heavy, for beside a large family of my own I have had to look out for an aged mother. There was no one to shoulder my household burdens, and come what might I must bear them, and this thought nearly drove me frantic when I realized that my health was breaking down."

"I read an article in the paper about one man with trouble like mine being helped by Grape-Nuts food and setting on this suggestion I gave Grape-Nuts a trial. The first dish of this delicious food proved that I had struck the right thing."

"My uncomfortable feelings in stomach disappeared as if by magic and in an incredibly short space of time I was again myself. Since then I have gained 12 pounds in weight through a summer of hard work and realize I am a very different woman, all due to the splendid food, Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pinks. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They're genuine, true, and full of human interest.

HOW GERMANY IS RAISING HER WAR MONEY

Berlin, Nov. 22.—When the war was declared there was a headlong rush to hoard money; that is gold and food. There was a tremendous financial crisis. To meet this the Reichstag passed seventeen emergency bills.

The first bill authorized extraordinary expenditures of 5,300,000,000 marks or $1,325,000,000 of the five thousand marks were to be loaned and the rest was to come from the empire's stock of gold and silver. The other measures were designed to meet the shortage of coin and provide means by which private business in the empire could go after a fashion.

First of all the provision of the banking law was indefinitely suspended by which the Imperial Bank is taxed on all outstanding notes in excess of its stock of coin; the bank was further authorized to protect such excess notes by any acceptances falling due within three months instead of only those bearing three good names. All the paper money of the bank was made simultaneously legal tender, and the bank was relieved of the obligation to pay out specie for it.

For the further relief of business a bill was passed for the granting of loans on all sorts of stocks and securities up to a total of 1,500,000,000 marks, or $375,000,000. The method of issue is peculiar. Cooperating with the Imperial Bank special loan offices will issue a sort of scrip which will be honored by the Imperial Bank and will generally have the same status as bank notes though the public will not be obliged to accept it as legal tender. This paper will be in denominations of from 5 to 50 marks, $1.25 to $12.50. The loans will run for 3 or 6 months, and any sort of imperishable stock or industrial product will be accepted as security up to two thirds of its assessed value. German stocks and securities will be taken close up to their market value.

In order to help industry, all legal restrictions as to hours of labor, age of employment and the like are temporarily repealed. Adjustments to war conditions have been made in the imperial insurance system, and likewise special provision for the families of soldiers called to the colors, the allowance to be $2.25 a month for the wife from May to September and $3 in the winter months and $1.50 for every child under 16.

To meet shortage of food supply the Government is now empowered to suspend all customs duties on eatables and to remove all inspection and other restrictions on importations, especially of frozen meat. The export of all foods and fodder is prohibited. Local authorities are authorized to set maximum prices for all articles of food and fuel and to compel dealers to set aside stock which they do not require for their own use.

RUSSIANS CLAIM BIG VICTORY IN POLAND

London, Nov. 22.—A Petrograd dispatch quotes the Army Messenger, official organ of the general staff of the Russian Army, as follows, in a discussion of the eastern war field:

"The Germans are making fresh efforts to penetrate our front between Lodz and Skierniewice with the object of marching on Warsaw. It seems that the enemy threw important forces in this direction. The effort of the Germans to march on Warsaw by penetrating our front between Kielce and Radom resulted in total failure, and our troops forced the enemy to retire along all this front. As always in its retreats, the German army lost enormous numbers in dead, wounded and prisoners, as well as precious trains, artillery and war material."

"On November 18 important Austro-German forces, supporting themselves on the fortified country between Czestochowa and Cracow, undertook an energetic offensive movement against our troops. Repulsed on all this front with heavy losses, the enemy endeavored a fresh offensive movement, but again our forces, by a counter attack, drove them back with losses as heavy as those which attended the first repulse. We took a large number of prisoners."

"It is announced that there is furious fighting in the region of Cracow the Germans realizing that this fortified position, with its strong fortifications, is their last projected position on this front."

Another dispatch says the advance of the Russians into the lake region of Eastern Prussia, near Johannsburg and Arys, has revealed the extent of the preparations made by the Germans to resist invasion. The whole region is described as a gigantic fortress, facing to the east and south in the form of a huge semicircle, ninety miles in extent.

The spaces between the lakes, which range from marshy ponds by the hundred, to bodies of water ten miles long, are entrenched with wire fences. At intervals there are earthen redoubts

STOP BUYING EXPENSIVE COUGH REMEDIES

Make the Best at Home

Money spent for the old-style, ready-made cough syrups in bottles holding only 2 to 2½ ounces is very largely wasted, because most of them are composed principally of sugar and water. Yet you have to pay the same prices as if it was all medicine. Stop wasting this money. You can make a better cough medicine at home at one-fifth the cost. Merely go to the drug store named below and ask for 2 ounces (50¢ worth) of Schiffmann's Concentrated Expecto-rant. Mix this with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of boiling water, which makes a full pint (16 ounces). Children, simple, pleasant remedy in guaranteed to relieve the worst cough or cold. Also excellent for Bronchial Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Hoarseness and Whooping Cough. One bottle will make enough home-made cough medicine to probably last the whole family the entire winter. Children like it, it is so pleasant to take and it positively contains no chloroform, opium, morphine or other narcotics, as do most cough mixtures. Keep it on hand in case of emergency and stop each cough before it gets a firm hold. This store has been authorized to return the money in every single case where it does not give perfect satisfaction or is not found the best remedy ever used. Absolutely no risk is run in buying this remedy under this positive guarantee. For sale here by Tilton Drug Co.

which are reinforced with stone work and protected by mine fields. Wherever it is practical canals have been dug. Behind these canals lie German trenches.

At Arys, where the Russians are reported to have made considerable advance in the last few days, they have been compelled to storm concrete block houses, resulting in some instances in heavy loss of life.

Improved conditions in Galicia are indicated by the fact that communication by rail between Kiev and Lemberg was re-established Friday.

Reports from Caucasus state that the Russian advance into Turkey is proceeding without serious resistance, although the invading forces are under fire from Turkish light artillery, located on the hillsides, practically all the time. There are almost no roads in the region of the Russo-Turkish border, and it is necessary for the Russians to move their guns and supply wagons through the mountain passes by hand.

The Turkish villages through which the Russians have passed are deserted and stripped of provisions. Only in the Armenian villages have any supplies been found.

In Galicia the Russians are surrounding Cracow along a circular front, about twenty-five miles from the town. Heavy fighting is reported to the north of the city. The left wing of the Russian forces is moving through the foot hills to the southeast, following the line of the railroad from Przemyśl to Cracow.

A Berlin dispatch by way of Copenhagen says:

"All of Germany is in a condition of extreme tension, awaiting the result of the great battle on the eastern front. The Russian forces are estimated at 900,000 men. The Germans control all the roads to Novo Georgievsk and Warsaw. The battle centres at Lodz, where the Germans and Austrians are in excellent position, while new Austrian forces are advancing from the south. The Russians are being attacked from three sides."

BARRETT NOMINATED IN DOVER

Dover, N. H., Nov. 22.—In one of the largest Republican caucuses ever held here, Ex-Representative George B. Barrett was nominated Saturday for Mayor over Mayor Charles H. Foss, candidate for a third term.

The vote for Barrett was 811; Foss 429.

The Democratic caucus last night nominated Arthur J. Grimes for Mayor, 614 votes being cast. He was unopposed.

Mr. Grimes is a native of Dover, a son of John H. Grimes, and associated with his father in the undertaking and insurance business. He attended St. Anselm's College and is an official of the Alumni A. A. of the college. After leaving college he was engaged in business in Boston for a time. He is a member of Dover Council, K. of C., and state secretary of the order.

George D. Barrett, the Republican nominee, is an insurance man. He ran for Mayor in 1908, against Mayor White, Democrat, who was elected for a second term.

He was born in Edmeston, N. Y., in 1864 and was educated at Colgate University. He was engaged in the insurance business at Rome, N. Y., before coming to Dover in 1894. He was for years secretary of the old Dover Commercial Club and did much toward securing new industries for the city.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild, but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

These pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the troubles and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids.

It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lousy" and "heavy." Note how they clear clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. At 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.

ARE THE ENGLISH DULL?

The most interesting and the most notable commentary upon this phase of English life is the present attitude of both the German and the English better class parents. It is astonishing to hear a group of well-to-do German fathers stating that they intend to send their sons to an English public school. Why, one asks. Out of the mass of reasons given, one disentangles the fact that the Germans are beginning to see that they educate their youths, but they do not train them. The English public schoolboy is governing all over the world, while the German boy serves him as a clerk. The Englishman has a way of gaining the confidence, the affection even, of stronger races, and of handling them and governing them with least friction. As one German said: "We must produce men who can govern. If we expect to colonize successfully." The German schools do not do this. The same is true of the French schools. Recently I have been travelling by road in a leisurely fashion through France. One sees school-houses everywhere, games, sports, evidences of private wealth nowhere. The English boy would be as a child in an examination room compared to French or German boys his own age. But he is far more to be depended upon, a far more companionable person, and much more at home in the world. The French and German youths are stuffed to the brim with book-learning, while the English lad is in many respects a man. If the three of them go out to the colonies we all know what happens. The French boy keeps the books, the German boy attends to the foreign correspondence, and the English boy manages both. A great German manufacturer who has a number of Englishmen as heads of different departments said naively: "Somehow these Englishmen seem to get on better with the work-people."—From England and the English, by Price Collier.

JOY RIDE WAS EXPENSIVE

Harry Rand's Friends Come to His Rescue to the Tune of $100.

The Manchester Union of today says:

"Sadder and somewhat wiser than he was a week ago, Harry Rand was discharged in the district court Saturday forenoon. Harry has always been a pretty decent boy so far as is known, and has driven the automobile of his employer, William Hurd, without mishap or exceeding the speed limit. But a week or more ago Harry stopped to listen to the siren song of some companions obsessed with the idea that a joy ride was the thing. He listened and was lost. Then he took his employer's motor car and away they went. When the dream was over the bubble busted and the gasoline gone, in Portsmouth a couple of days ago. Harry's jovial companions had somehow managed to fade away as such companions have a faculty of doing, and he was left to pay the fiddler.

Rand was arrested and brought back to Manchester, while the machine, very much the worse for wear, was sent to the auto hospital. In the district court Friday morning, the boy's lawyer asked for a continuance of the case until Saturday morning. Then he got busy with Rand's friends. The result was that when the case was called Saturday nobody appeared against him and the case was not pressed at the request of the chief of police. The reason was that $100 had been raised which covered the damage to the machine and fixed things up satisfactorily generally.

Meanwhile, Harry has no job, and is not as happy as he was; but he knows more.

Gentlemen:—
Since November, 1911, this Company has been using, exclusively, the Hardman Pianos. There have been eighteen of these instruments in constant use in the dressing rooms of the artists, in the orchestra, and elsewhere for practical work, besides a large number used by the artists in their private apartments, and it gives me much pleasure to express on behalf of this Company and also the artists taking part in the performances, the thorough satisfaction we all feel in these instruments.

The fine tone quality, fullness and splendid durability of the Hardman Pianos are fully recognized by every one here, and it is very evident that they must be exceedingly well built to stand the usage to which they are subjected, owing to the extremely heavy demands which we make upon them. We shall start upon the coming season of 1914-1915 with complete assurance in regard to the unqualified satisfaction that the Hardman Pianos will give to us, and to our artists.
